MORE SNOW PROMISED FOR TUESDAY

WEATHER. Increasing cloudiness followed by snow beginning late tonight and Tuesday. Slowly rising temperature.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21—New York today was "digging out" from the biggest blizzard since 1900. The snow fall was 12½ inches and it was accompanied by a 35 mile wind.
Today the weather was clear and cold.

The deaths of ten persons was ascribed to the blizzard,
persons being blinded by snow and stepping in front of cars,
slipping on the ice, etc.

It will cost the city $1,000,000 to clear away the snow and ice.

BOSTON, Feb. 21—With seven persons reported dead, trolley service practically at a standstill and shipping along the coast completely tied up, New England today experiences the heaviest snow fall since 1898.

Four of the seven dead were fishermen who were swept overboard during the storm.

Hundreds of automobiles were snow bound in upper Boston and had to be abandoned by their drivers during the height of the snow storm.

Nearly sixteen inches of snow fell in Massachusetts and lower New England.

ONE WOMAN DEAD AND SIX PERSONS ILL AFTER PARTAKING OF MIDNIGHT LUNCH

UNIONTOWN, Feb. 21—One woman is dead and six others are in a serious condition as the result of poisoning following a midnight lunch. The dead woman is Mrs. Mary Shady, aged 47, who was found dead in the bath room when physicians were called to the house to attend the others.
Doctors said the symptoms were those produced by ptomaine poisoning. An analysis of the left over food will be made to determine the cause. The ill are Anna Shady, aged 10, daughter of the dead woman and Samuel Saber, her son-in-law and his four children. Physicians believe they will recover.

"I Did It With My Little Hatchet"

INDIFFERENCE OF PEOPLE TROUBLE WITH EDUCATION

NEW YORK, Feb. 21—"There is not a body of men and women in America more loyal than teachers,"
said Henry J. Ryan, national director of the Americanism commission of the American Legion before the convention of the National Civic Federation February 15th, in this city.
"The American school system has failed to train citizens as it should,"
Mr. Ryan continued, "but the fault lies not with the educators but with the indifference of the average man
and woman."

It cannot be doubted that a great many educators are attempting to engender hatred of America rather than love. Such teachers must be found and weeded out. But the vast majority are a strong force for patriotism and they love their profession enough to remain in it in spite of the discouragement of low salary,
public indifference and lack of co-operation.

Mr. Ryan pleaded for higher pay for teachers and a closer union between education and business. Recently, in an address in Washington,
Mr. Ryan was quoted as undertaking to estimate how many disloyal teachers there are in the country. The full text of his address showed his attention was to state that the vast majority of educators are intensely patriotic.

WEILDER CAMPERS HAD MEETING WITH BRUIN AT SPRING

A couple of local mountaineers who were spending a few days at Weilder camp on the mountain northwest of town and near Kennedy Park game reserve, were scared out of a week's growth Saturday evening about dusk just before it got real dark one of the fellows took the water bucket and started to the spring for water. When he stepped down off the porch he ran against a huge black bear which had dropped around to dine on some fallen apples under a tree within 10 or 15 feet of the porch.

Bear and man halted within six feet of each other, but not for long.
The man came too first. He landed on the porch ten feet hence in his first jump and banged into the door
before he could get it open and fell back toward the bear. He emitted an unearthly howl for help as he lit, expecting every minute, as he afterwards expressed it, to feel bruin biting through his B V D's.
His fellow camper rushed to the rescue at the sound of his friend's voice and got the door open in time to see a scared bear beat it up through the held surrounding the camp.

After things had quieted down
the bear came back and onto the apples but that camper couldn't be hired to go outside the camp in the dark again.

Mrs. Rena Knepp spent Sunday at her home in Woodland.

LEGION BAND HELD LAST REHEARSAL SUNDAY AFTERNOON

The final rehearsal of the American Legion Band was held yesterday afternoon and there was a full turnout of the musicians to put the vanguard to a wonderfully built program. The boys rehearsed from 2:30 until 6 o'clock and if that is not earning our patronage we do not know what Clearfielders expect of a band. Following is the program that will be rendered.

across the Atlantic Ocean approximately from Europe to Yucatan. It is the subject of an exhaustive valume by Ignatius Donnelly, and has also served as inspiration for several novelists. This continent, it is believed, was the home of a great race which conquered and civilized the world. The Aztec Islands are considered to be the tops of its lively mountains, and are all that now remains above water of the great country.

VERDICT FOR ALLEN IN SUIT AGAINST TRACTION COMPANY

The jury in the damage suit of J.
A. Allen, Sr., on behalf of J. A. Allen, Jr., vs. the B. & P. Railway Company returned a verdict Saturday night last in favor of the plaintiffs in the sum of $6,729.74.

The jury found for the father of the boy in the sum of $729.74, for medical aid, etc. The boy was given $3,000 for the pain and suffering he endured thus far, and $3,000 for loss of earning power due to the injuries sustained which are more or less permanent.

The case will no doubt be appealed to the higher courts by the railway company and if such is the case
there will have to be two appeal taken, as under the rules governing the upper courts all appeals where the amount involved is less than $1,500 must be taken to the superior court while in cases where the verdict is in excess of that sum the appeal must be taken to the supreme court.

WHAT THE DUBOIS COURIER SAIL

The DuBois Courier has the following to say of the league situation.

As there is still a tie for first place, picking the pennant winner is a hard job. But considering the form shown against the local team this year, we look to see Clearfield take the bacon this year. This team is without a doubt the best in the league and is composed of some of the fastest men in the league. Undoubtedly, the Clearfield High School team will take the trip to Grove City on March 17 to play for the championship.

LOCAL RED MEN ENTERTAIN CENTRAL PENNSYLVANIA RED MEN'S LEAGUE WITH BANQUET AT THE DIMELING

Over Three Hundred Braves Meet Here From Various Parts of
The State to Discuss Good of The Order and Plan for the Promotion of Its Principles. Address Made by Matt Savave Very Much Appreciated.

WAR PAINT OFF FOR PEACE TIME RESPONSIBILITIES

The Central Pennsylvania Red
Men's League was the guest of Chinleclamoose Tribe, I. O. R. M., at a delightful banquet at the Dimeling Hotel Saturday evening last which more than 300 members of the order participated. The banquet preceded one of the regular monthly meetings of the league at which much business of interest to this energetic, patriotic order was transacted.

The Central Pennsylvania Red
Men's League was organized at Lewistown, several months ago,
having for its purpose the upbuilding and advancement of the order in this region. There were 22 tribes in the organization at its inception and according to the program arranged monthly meetings are held each tribe in turn being given the opportunity of entertaining the

The banquet Saturday evening
was in charge of Charles Shugarts,
chairman of the local entertainment committee. This committee had prepared a fine program and Chairman
Shugarts directed same in fine style.

A distinct and highly pleasing feature of the evening was the voca-lism furnished by Messrs.
I. M. Snyder and E. B. Bowser, of Altoona. These gentlemen are exceptionally fine singers and treated the banquet to all the latest songs sung in an artistic and highly pleasing manner to the accompaniment of Thayer's Susquehanna College of Music Orchestra.

Nearly 400 Red Men sat down to the banquet table and following the opening song by Messrs. Snyder and Bowser, Brother Matt Savage, of Chinleclamoose Tribe, delivered the address of welcome. Mr. Savage ward in his usual good form and his words left no doubt in the minds of the "visiting brothers" as to the warmth of their welcome. Mr. Savage's address follows:

Mr. Toastmaster, Brothers and Friends:

Listen! Clearfield is proud to extend an enthusiastic and meaningwelcome to the Central Pennsylvania Red Men's League and this brilliant occasion is a distinguishing credit to the committee tribal officer,
and the Dimeling, all having charge
of it, and it may therefore be considered a brotherly expression of our hospitable feelings toward every Red Man and "Pale Face" strange lucky enough to be here tonight.

The prime and motive purpose of the Central Pennsylvania Red Men's League is to promote the good of the order by increasing its membership and influence and to promulgate its noble principles by opening its doors and windows widely to the world in order that the sunshine of its good works may fall upon new seedling grounds for its exalted principles and to thus help build nobly character and harmonious, happy society in our midst. The Red Men's order would be a helping hand wherever good counsel and help will best serve young men in their close and conflicting relations in getting properly started in life. It would speak plainly but kindly of the unwisdom and wrong of men. It would criticize and rebuke its fellows when properly and sharply and would point
the way to a better life and bid its members walk therein. Indeed, Red Men believe in God implicitly, in men generally a great deal and in character as an especially essential in reaching human success in its world
helping endeavor.

In the field of friendship, covered

BUSINESS AND TRADE

With Special Attention to Coal, Clay and Brick Trade News of Local Interest.

In a series of articles relative to the Mingo County troubles, Winthrop D. Lane of the New York Evening Post questioned the equity of the so-called feudalistic conditions in the Williamson-Thacker and other coal fields of West Virginia, avoiding, however, giving any solution of the problems involved. Mr. Lane is puzzled. He wants a normal solution for an abnormal situation. He admits that the operator's ubiquity as employer, merchant, landlord, etc., has arisen out of the early mining conditions and that those conditions have not changed. But still he wants the miner to live as if a new situation had arisen.

Is Mr. Lane in this a "forward-looking man" or is he a retrogressive? Is it better for the miner to be the lord of his residence and so compelled to work for one man or forfeit his property, or it is better for him to be a footloose tenant, perfectly free to move if he does not like his working conditions or if the mines close down? It would seem better for the employer that his employee give bond for good behavior in the ownership of a house, but surely it is better for the worker that he bind himself in no such manner to a plant that may not work steadily, to an employer who may not favor him or to a company that may not be successful.

Mr. Lane says rightly that the operator can and often does thrust an employee out of his home if he will not work. On the other hand, if the man owned his house he and his wife and family would have to leave it if the work given him were not desirable. In that case he would have to buy another residence, and the one he would leave he might be unable to sell. If the employer in his home town was not fair there would be no influx of miners to that town to purchase his abandoned property.

It would seem that the tenant in this case is the freer man. The freeholders of England, of whom so much has been written, said and sung in rose and in verse, were not independent because they owned their homes in which their living was made. The miner would have to own his little mine if he were desirous of a like freedom.

It is true that with a commuting and trolleying system such as it found in parts of Pennsylvania, Illinois and Indiana it is possible for workmen to live where they will and travel to the mines on the railroads. That traveling, however, is not a light burden on the miner, especially where, as in the middle west, he pays an altogether inadequate commuting rate and receives accordingly poor service, even though in general the railroad sustains a loss on the running of miners' trains. To travel in cold, drafty cars for an hour, night and morning, and at scheduled times is no small affliction from which the West Virginia miner living almost on the job may well be grateful that he is delivered. Especially should he remember that advantage on days

MATTY WEEPS WHEN
TEAMS LEAVE HIM
BEHIND IN BED

By Henry L. Farrell
(United Press Correspondent)
Saranac Lake, N. Y., Feb. 21.

Christy Mathewson wept today as he read of the teams going south without him. Fighting for his life against the ravages of tuberculosis, "Big Six" was found today bundled to his ears in heavy blankets. It was the first time in seven months that his home was opened to a newspaper man.

"He has been extremely nervous and impatient lately," said his faithful nurse, his wife, who talked for Mathewson because talking was too much for his strength. "I think it comes from reading the papers telling about the ball teams going south. You know it is the first time in 21 years they have gone without him. He broke down and cried bitterly. I never saw him do that before."

He has lost 100 pounds in the year he has been sick and his cheeks are white with a pale that is dotted with scarlet spots, which burn when the dreaded fever takes hold.

"Sure he will get well," Dr. E. M. Packard said, "but he will never be quite so active. He will have to take excellent care of himself."

Miss Annie Griffin returned to Rochester, N. Y., today after attending the funeral of Mrs. Honora Kelly.

Uncle Walt's
Story

BEGINNING THE DAY

"If a man begins the day in a good humor," observed the professor, "everything will prosper with him."

"You talk as though beginning the day in a good humor was as easy as falling off a log," said the low-browed man. "I suppose you have been reading one of those fool sunshine books, and you think a man can be in a good humor just by saying he is going to be. But a man can't control his humors any more than he can control dreams."

"Some days I feel like the original Sunny Sam," said the professor, "and I just naturally go around shedding light into the dark places, and making everybody glad. At such times the world seems an unqualified success, and the fact that I was born into it does not cause me any remorse. If some prominent citizen backed me up against a fence and asked me what made me feel so gay, I couldn't give him any helpful information. I don't know, myself, what causes the chipper feeling. I suppose it must be because my works are in good condition, doing their digestive stunts at the old stand."

"After a few days the glad feeling passes away, and instead of being a Sunny Samuel I become a Mournful Moses. I have all kinds of presentiments of evil. I have a firm conviction that the bottom is about to drop out of everything, and that I'll be mixed up with the wreckage. I take a pessimistic view of everything, and go grouching around until even the crows are sick of seeing me, and they give me a lift with their blind feet as a gentle hint that I should come out of my trance."

"If a leading business man asked me to explain my melancholy I couldn't do it. The world seems to be moving along as though nothing had happened. The same old sun is shining on the day shift, and the scented zephyrs are blowing through my whiskers as of old."

"Often a man begins the day wroth, through some accident or unpleasant experience. Then he knows why he has a grouch, but that doesn't help him to get rid of it. This morning I was lying in bed dreaming that I was the only original white hope, and that I was making a heroic effort to bring the laurels back to the Caucasian race. I was just administering an upbraid to that seemed destined to bring home the bacon, when I felt out of bed and practically ruined my heart against the floor."

"I came downstairs in a beastly humor, and after breakfast I went over and picked a quarrel with old Doc Little, so that he had to shun up a tree to escape violence, and all because I was feeling ornery. It wouldn't have been safe for any man to tell me that in order to begin the day right all a man has to do is to begin it right."

"I have come out from the house to milk the cows in the morning, many a time, feeling as listless and glad as a detached, and quite satisfied that the day was going to be one round of pleasure. Then a cow would give me a poke in the ribs with one of her celluloid horns, or push her big spray foot into a brimming bucket of milk, and the joyous stuff was all off, and I'd be so sore all day that Aunt Julia would hand me my meals with a pitchfork."

The other morning I got up feeling so mean that I was ashamed to look in the mirror. I went downtown after breakfast, in the mood to rob a blind organ grinder of his few plucked nickels. Then I went to the post office and got a registered letter. A man who had owed me $2 for five years had an ingrowing conscience at last, and sent the money to me. When I got the post office everybody commented on my winning smile and said I was the little sunbeam of the town."

Twins Strangely Linked.
Albert Grierson and Walter Grierson, St. Louis twins, were members of the same company, and each wore a small diamond ring and a watch and chain in France. Albert lost the stone of his ring and a few days later Walter lost the stone of his. Then Albert lost his watch and chain and soon afterward Walter's disappeared. Then Albert was wounded and Walter followed suit. And now they intend to marry twin sisters, Geraldine and Blenline Smalley of Sheldon, Ill.—Indianapolis News.

All Depends.
"Can you support my daughter in the suit she's been accustomed to?" asked the father of the young man who sought his daughter in marriage. "Well," replied the young man thoughtfully, "is she strong for a $500 baby grand piano or a $5 talking machine?"

Suitable plantings are necessary to make the parts of a farmstead into a pleasing, homelike whole. Trees are used for windbreaks, as frames for the buildings or a background for them, and to give shade. Shrubs are needed in abundance to hide partially the foundation lines of buildings, support their corners, give reasons for trees in drives or walks, and to screen unsightly objects. Native trees and shrubs and those known in trial to thrive in the locality are the best to use.

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.
These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system. If you have a pale face, salivary look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results. Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit.

A Friend of the Family

Over fifty years ago a young physician practiced widely in Pennsylvania and became famous for his uniform success in the curing of disease. This was Dr. R. V. Pierce, who afterwards established himself in Buffalo, N. Y., and placed one of his prescriptions, which he called his "Golden Medical Discovery," in the drug stores of the United States so that the public could easily obtain this very remarkable tonic, corrective, and blood-maker. Dr. Pierce manufactured this "Discovery" from roots and barks without alcohol—a corrective remedy, the ingredients of which nature had put in the fields and forests, for keeping us healthy. Few folk or families now living have not at some time or other used this Golden Medical Discovery for the stomach and liver. No one suffers from colds, "flu" and catarrh who has plenty of red blood corpuscles and a good digestion. Introduce pure red blood into the system, and health is assured. You can obtain Golden Medical Discovery in tablet or liquid form at all drug stores, or send 10c for a trial package to Dr. Pierce's Laboratory in Buffalo, N. Y.

Oil City, Pa.—I can praise Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery most highly as a tonic. My husband was just about down and out; he had absolutely no strength, and we thought he was in for a sick spell when "Golden Medical Discovery" was recommended to him some years ago. The first few doses started him gaining in health and he was just as well as could be within a month or so. Since that time whenever he needs a tonic he does not hesitate in getting Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and he also recommends it to his friends.—MRS. MARGARET BRADLEY, 108 Walnut Street.

AT THE CONCERT

The last performance we witnessed at the Driggs Theatre was one of the best that ever came to Clearfield but if you were to ask us what it was all about we would be unable to tell you, and we doubt very much if anybody sitting back of the middle of the house could do so. About three fourths of the theatre goers of Clearfield or Curwensville or Woodland, we don't know just where they are from, evidently believe that it is "quite proper" to go a little late. Probably such an entry affords a better opportunity of displaying the graces and charms in personality and costume. Then upon entering, they have such a delightful habit of discussing all the funny things that have happened during the day to the accompaniment of giggles and gurgles.

The band concert tomorrow evening will begin promptly at 8:30. Precisely at that moment every band man is to be in his chair ready for action and the stage manager has orders to ring up the curtain.

The Progress is going to ask the Driggs management to close the doors at that moment and not admit any late comers until after the playing of the first number. Incidentally this is another reason why you should procure your ticket before the hour of the performance.

HONESTY VERSUS DISHONESTY

The other night something of a sensation was created in a certainty fraternity society when a member who had been on the beneficial list for some months rose and told the organization that he had been overpaid by the sum of one week's benefits. The incident created a small commotion and one of the other members referred to it as affording substantial evidence that the world contains a few men who are absolutely honest.

The fact is that a very large majority of the people of the present day are honest in their relations with their fellow men. Even the most successful of the race of practical politicians are perfectly straight in their relations with others. Those who practice graft, those who are forever looking after Number One come to the ends of their careers long before their normal time and that end is one which nobody could possibly envy.

All the business of the world is run on faith. Financial and industrial panics are invariably the result of a loss of confidence. We all know that so long as faith is at the helm confidence will remain and there can be no panic until she vanishes. There isn't money enough in the whole world to conduct even a very small fraction of today's business. Comparatively little money is exchanged in the most extensive transaction. Faith is the active agent whereby the world's trade is carried on. Shatter faith and wild-eyed panic takes command of the situation.

We are by no means fond of hearing any man assert that the average human being is in the world for what he can make out of it. We do not believe it, regardless of moral considerations. We believe the honest men and women have command of the situation and of the business realm, as they have had in other centuries. We do not believe that "every man has his price." We refuse to credit the assertion that all sorts of men will take what they can grab, without reference to moral principles. We all know many men and women who would scorn to touch a dishonest penny. A great many persons pride themselves in the fact that their word is as good as their bond. We all know them; we all have the utmost respect for them and the greatest confidence in their word.

Whoso maligns humanity by asserting that everybody is in the world for what he can get out of it arouses suspicion. It is a dangerous thing to talk after such a fashion. It is done thoughtlessly and without a due realization of its meaning, of its implications. Let us be glad that the world contains so many honest, upright, sincere men and women. Suppose we honor our race sufficiently to have faith in its ambitions, its sterling sincerity and its continuous and constant honesty. The world will be a pleasant place for all who cherish an abiding faith in the integrity of their fellows.

RED CLOVER CAN BE SOWN EARLY

Many Farmers Plant as Early as February, Even While Snow Is On Ground.

SEED SELECTION IMPORTANT

Plant Is Hardy and Not Injured by Ordinary Cold, and Sowing May Be Done While Other Farm Work Is Comparatively Slack.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Red clover has been sown the corner stone of agriculture in the North Central and Eastern states. Many farmers will begin laying the corner stone as early as February, when it is customary in many sections to sow red clover on the surface of the snow, so that it will sink into the soil with the first thaw in the spring. Red clover is hardy, and is not injured by ordinary cold; and the fact that it can be sown at a season when work on the farm is comparatively light adds to the economy of its cultivation.

The first important point to be observed is the selection of good seed, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Considerable care should be used in this respect well in advance of the time of sowing. This is particularly true at present, when a large proportion of the red clover seed used in the United States comes from abroad. If poor seed is used the expected crop may be a partial or total failure.

Good Seed Is Plump.

Good red clover seed is plump or well filled, bright with a slight luster, the color of individual seeds ranging from violet to light yellow. The individual seeds should be at least medium sized and fairly uniform, free of adulterants of any kind and from seeds of noxious weeds.

Home-grown seed is desirable, especially in the North, because it is almost certain to be adapted to local conditions. If it is not available, samples should be obtained from reliable dealers. These should be examined for adulterants, weed seeds and shriveled seeds. They should also be tested for germination before purchasing in quantity.

In the absence of more accurate methods an estimate should be made of the proportion of true red clover seed and of weed seeds and other impurities. From the red clover seed separated from all impurities, a counted number, as 100, should be taken just as they come. These seeds should be placed between layers of moistened cloth or paper or merely covered in a bed of sand or light soil. A dinner plate, covered with another, is a suitable germinating receptacle. It can be kept in the living room, at a temperature between 65 and 85 degrees. Between the third and sixth days the sprouting ability of the seeds should be shown.

It should be borne in mind that the sowing value of the seed is represented by the amount of true clover which will germinate with reasonable promptness. Thus, if four-fifths of a sample is pure clover, and only three-fourths will sprout, then only three-fifths, or 60 per cent, of the original seed as offered will grow. Thus, the germinating test has an important bearing on the worth of seed offered to the farmer.

Protects American Farmers.

A seed-testing service is maintained by the United States Department of Agriculture, where 29,638 samples of various seeds were examined and tested in the last fiscal year. 16,442 in Washington and 13,196 in the five branch seed-testing stations. Similar service is offered by the various state experiment stations. The department also exercises a strict inspection service over field seeds brought from foreign countries, and last year 5,000,000 pounds of various seeds were rejected or held for cleaning before being allowed to be offered to American farmers.

It is important that the testing of seed be done early enough that a sufficient supply of pure seed can be purchased in time for use; and if seed is to be sent to one of the government or state testing laboratories, at least two weeks should be allowed.

MORE RICH, RED BLOOD NEEDED

Pepto-Mangan Gives You the Health To Tackle Your Daily Work With Vigor

If you sit at a desk all day in an office, whether you are perched on a high stool or seated in an upholstered chair, your body is inactive. You can't get much fresh air and outdoor exercise. Your blood becomes poor. You look pale and feel weak.

The great tonic, Pepto-Mangan, is what you need for awhile. It makes rich, red blood. It restores your vital energy. Your color comes back.

When your blood is good, full of red corpuscles, you are better able to resist disease. You go about your daily work with the optimism of good health.

Try Pepto-Mangan and notice how you improve.

Pepto-Mangan is sold in both liquid and tablet form. Take either kind you prefer. But be sure you get the genuine Pepto-Mangan — "Gude's". The full name, "Gude's Pepto-Mangan" should be on the package.

SEASONABLE FOODS.

During the winter when canned fruit is to be used in various ways, the following will be a salad that is unusual, and very good:

Plum and Cream Cheese Salad.—Take canned green gage plums, drained from their symp and dry on soft paper. Cut open and remove the stones, allowing three plums with the cheese for each salad. Chop fine a dozen pecan meats and half a pint of cream, and add to the plums. Beat these into cream cheese, adding cream if the cheese lacks moisture. Shape into balls. Make a nest of heart leaves of lettuce on these dispose the plums with a ball of cheese in the center to take the place of the stone. Serve with French dressing, using lemon juice, one part to three or four of oil.

Baked Beans, New York Style.—Let a pint of beans soak over night in water to cover. In the morning drain, add fresh water and rub the beans through the hands to loosen the skins. Wash in a colander with cold water. Cover with cold water and return to fire to cook. Dip one-fourth of a pound of salt pork into boiling water, scrape the rind and score it, then put to cook with the beans. When the skins commence to curl, remove them from the fire and put them to bake in a shallow baking dish. Press the pork into the center of the dish and cover with a granite pan. Bake six hours in a moderate oven, adding water as needed. Do not add water during the last hour of baking. Remove the pork and brown during the last hour. Serve with mustard pickles, tomato catsup or any desired relish.

Peanut Straws.—Roll rich pastry to one-eighth of an inch in thickness; spread one-half with softened peanut butter; wet the edges of the crust; fold the remaining half over it. Roll lightly; prick here and there to prevent puffing; cut in strips half an inch wide and four inches long; brush with milk and bake in a quick oven. When done, sprinkle with paprika.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's recipe to bring lustre and youthfulness to hair when faded, streaked or gray

That beautiful even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur compound" now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Another bird may molt late and at the same time show poor quality. Birds of this type are usually medium producers and the owner must decide Standardization Establishes Common Language Between Buyer and Seller.

It has been demonstrated many times that in the markets of the world the seller with the best graded products is the favorite because graded goods are standard and the buyer knows what he will get when he buys. Standardization establishes a common language between the buyer in one country and the seller in another, which creates understanding and confidence and prevents disputes.

A national grading system usually provides for authorized national inspectors to pass upon the goods and thus puts into effect a uniform standard application of the grades established, whatever they may be. This cannot be maintained unless the system is nation wide in its scope.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS

The ladies' auxiliary of Joshua Earl Sipes Post No. 503, American Legion, has arranged for the holding of a 500 card party at the legion rooms, South Filbert street, on Washington's birthday, Tuesday evening, February 22. The price of admission will be 50 cents.

The primary object of this gathering of the members of this new organization is the raising of a fund sufficient for the purchase of a suitable marker or monument in commemoration of the men who served and were discharged from service in the late World War. The marker will contain the names of each and every one of those who went from Curwensville and vicinity, whether he was a volunteer or a draftee. There will be no distinction made along this line, no difference how he came to be in the service, as all did their duty faithfully and well in the several branches in which they were placed. The memorial will be placed in some public spot of the town, possibly on the public school grounds, unless other plans are arranged other than those now in hand. Every member of the auxiliary is earnestly requested to lend her support and energy in bringing this commendable project to a successful accomplishment. We might add that it would be commendable for every adult both male and female in Curwensville, to aid these women financially in their patriotic work, and in every way that they possibly can. It would be something for the town to be proud of if the tablet or marker could be purchased and placed in position for the unveiling ceremonies to take place on Memorial Day.

In this connection we wish to call the attention of our citizens to the fact that the women of the G. A. R. made a most heroic effort for years to raise a sufficient fund by which a memorial marker could be erected in token of the brave men who went from Curwensville, many of them serving four and five years in the service of the Civil War that the union might be preserved as a unit and that the generations that followed might enjoy the liberty of living and serving under one flag, the red, white and blue. Would it not be a good idea for the citizens to take this matter up with the ladies' auxiliary of the American Legion and work in conjunction with it, so that when the time came to place a memorial in honor of those who served in the World War, one could be placed alongside in commemoration of the brave deeds of the old Civil War veteran, a singular few of whom yet survive in this community. Think about it; and we are almost sure that the patriotic people of this community will have two honorable tablets to uncover instead of one.

The writer was not a soldier in either of the three wars of his generation, and when he went to enlist in 1898 was turned down flat simply because he happened to be a married man. Although the blood of France and Holland flows through our veins it does not deter us from being a thoroughbred American first, last and all the time, and assist all he is able in bringing about the above.

The Presbyterian folks are going to have a grand social time in their church, Tuesday evening. A literary and musical program has been arranged which will be well worth hearing. Luscious refreshments will be served. Tickets are being sold for 25 cents. It should be well patronized, and no doubt will be.

Mrs. Peter O'Laughlin, residing on Gramplan road, went to the Clearfield Hospital last week to have her tonsils removed. The operation was a successful one, and she is expected to arrive home within the next few days.

Louie's orchestra, which was organized in part to furnish music in the Methodist Episcopal Sunday school and church entertainments, will not do so for the present, owing to some objections, which do not amount to anything, having been raised by some of the women of the church. The version we got of the tangle is that the women thought this musical organization should not play for any dances during week days, and the orchestra boys could not see it just in that light.

Curt Peters, who is employed in the Lansberry mines in Bradford township, was home over Sunday with his family.

Sealed proposals are being asked by the postmaster general for bids for carrying of the U. S. mail for a term of four years between this place and Lumber City, a distance of 6.77 miles, six times a week. The depositing and collecting of mail along the route is included in the work.

It is said there are as far as heard from, five applicants for the postmastership in this place. They are all good men and worthy citizens and perfectly competent to fill the position acceptably so far as the office patrons are concerned.

Isaac Black expects to move his drilling outfit to Red Wing, Cambria county, where he will be for the next month or so delving into the depth of Mother Earth to ascertain what is hidden there.

Producers Must Carefully Study and Cater to Peculiar Requirements of Market.

NEAT PACKAGE IS ESSENTIAL

Specialists of Department of Agriculture Give Directions for Killing, Dressing and Packing—Dry Picking Favored.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Poultry profits often depend largely on the marketing, and the producer should study demands to learn how, where, and when to dispose of his products to the best advantage. It often pays to dress the fowl at home for certain markets, the difference between the prices for live and dressed fowl making it worth while.

Attractive appearance is of much importance in selling poultry; therefore, the producer who plans to market his poultry dressed should study the details of killing, dressing and packing, in order to prepare the products in the best possible manner. Requirements for dressing and packing vary somewhat in different markets, and it will pay the producer to learn any special demands of the distributing point to which he intends shipping.

Killing, Dressing, and Packing.

The birds should be kept without feed from 18 to 24 hours before killing, unless they are to be drawn, specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture say. In the latter case, they should have no feed for at least 18 hours before killing. When ready to kill, suspend the fowl by the legs and, using a knife, cut the vein at the back of the throat through the mouth. As soon as this vein is cut run the point of the knife through the roof of the mouth into the brain, which causes the bird to lose all sense of feeling. The fowl can be paralyzed also by a blow on the head, instead of piercing the brain.

In most markets dry-picked birds are preferred. Immediately after killing, while the bird is still bleeding, the picker removes the feathers, being careful not to tear the skin. If the picker waits until the bird is nearly cold, removing the feathers will be more difficult. As soon as picked, the fowls should be hung in a cool place until thoroughly cold. If the weather is warm and the fowls are to be packed in ice, they should be placed in a tank of ice water and left until all the animal heat has left the body.

When birds are scalded before removing the feathers, they are immersed in water slightly below the boiling point, as soon as they are through bleeding. The birds should be immersed three or four times and then picked clean, care being taken not to break the skin. Be careful not to overscald, as this will cause the outer surface of the skin to rub off. Then it is placed in cold water where it should remain for 15 to 20 minutes. If the fowl is to be shipped dry it should be hung up until the skin becomes thoroughly dry.

Poultry which is to be sold direct to the consumer should be drawn before it is cooled. Poultry which is sold to the market should not be drawn, as it will keep better not drawn than if drawn. A slit large enough to admit the fingers is made from near the end of the keel bone toward the vent. Then cut carefully around the vent and pull out the intestines, leaving in all the other organs, unless the consumer's requirements are otherwise.

Should Be Packed Solidly.

When the birds have been thoroughly cooled, they are ready for packing. Packages for dressed poultry vary, but they should be neat and small enough to be easily handled. Line the inside of the boxes or barrels with clean, unprinted paper, and pack the birds solidly, so they will not shift in the package, but be careful not to bruise them. For delivery to retail customers, pasteboard boxes of sufficient size to hold one or two birds are very attractive. When poultry is to be packed in ice, barrels are generally used, packing them with alternate layers of ice.

Birds Must Sing Sweetly.

In inner-singing contests marks are carved against birds introducing "rough song" notes into "pleasant song" notes.

"THE FOUR HORSEMEN OF THE APOCALYPSE"—Metro

"The Four Horsemen" is a stupendous production. Among those who attended the picture's premiere Thursday night at the Ritz-Carlton, were many doubting Thomases who maintained it was impossible to take so extensive a tale and film it without mutilating Ibanez's story. However, thanks to the ingenuity of the director, Rex Ingram, there has been no destruction of thought. Ibanez's inspiration remains untouched as well as his purpose. With this colorful, picturesque Argentine episodes its romance against the gay background of Paris, its thrilling sweep of drama in the Marne scenes, "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" reveals itself as the best picture touching on the war; indeed, one of the best photoplays since "The Birth of a Nation." We predict stardom for Rudolph De Valentina, who plays the leading role, and Rex Ingram's direction ranks him with Griffith. The picture will be given a formal premiere on Broadway next month.

"THE SAPHEAD"—Metro

Winchell Smith, responsible for some of the biggest successes that Broadway has known, has written and produced "The Saphead" for Metro. The picture co-stars William H. Crane, for two generations one of the most distinguished stars on the American Stage, and Buster Keaton, that mimitable young comedian. The story itself is rather weak, and has far too little plot to sustain the interest through its six reels. However, Keaton is entertaining as "The Saphead." He has a quick subtlety of method that makes him an eligible candidate for the more human field of straight comedy and Metro has advanced him to stardom in the belief that he is the coming comedian of the screen. It's a good picture if you've nothing else to do.

Cosmopolitan
"Buried Treasure" a romantic melodrama starring Marion Davies. deals with reincarnation. We don't know how modern psychologists treat these atavistic sensations, but at least they make a good scenario. It has, moreover, the advantage of a very beautiful pictorial treatment through its director, George Baker and its scenic artist, Joseph Urban. The island scenes, the pictures of old Spain, the pirates ship afire through the mutiny, have a sentimental, if somewhat stagey beauty which suggests Maxfield Parish. They are given through a romantic haze of photography and screen composition which is a delight to the eye. Marion Davies plays the energetic heroine with more life than we have ever seen in her work. It's worth while seeing.

chantment in occasions like this and truly a joy forever. There is nothing there will be holy life in remembering its associations. It is such events as the Red Men's banquet that give us a clearer insight into the realities and blessings of life and we should be proud that we live in this vigorous, stirring age—the greatest era the world's history has ever known.

Walter Welsh and A. R. Chase, both local Red Men of prominence, followed with happy and interesting little speeches, after which Great Senior Sagamore Dr. John T. Ferley, of Philadelphia, was called upon. Dr. Ferley is one of Pennsylvania's most prominent Red Men and made a happy little speech in which he commended the local tribe for the manner in which it received its guests and for the great interest shown in the league meeting.

Cyrus Stern, of Altoona, great junior sagamore, followed Brother Ferley and talked along similar lines.

Edward O'Neill, a past sachem, of Philadelphia, who accompanied Dr. Ferley to Clearfield, ended the speech making with a brief exposition of Redmanship which made a profound impression upon his auditors. He gave a brief history of the order, which he styled the oldest patriotic order in America, dating as it does from its organization in 1765 as an offshoot or successor to the Tammany Society. He traced its existence through the years and pointed out many of the great things accomplished by it during its life. He said there are 85,000 Red Men in Pennsylvania and they prided themselves on their patriotic endeavor and their efforts to serve their fellow man. The order maintains a home for the aged, but better still are today supporting 400 orphan members in their own homes under their own mother's watchful care.

At the conclusion of the banquet the guests retired and the delegates present got down to business. The league meeting was presided over by President Rothrock, of Lewisburg. His report showed the organization flourishing, Tyronne Tribe reporting the initiating of 171 new members following its entertainment of the league.

The Curwensville and Duncannon Tribes were admitted to the league. The Great Council of the United States having decided that all ex-service men could affiliate with this intensely American and patriotic organization by the payment of but $1 as an initiation fee, their service for their country having discharged all other obligations. The different tribes were asked to get busy and bring these young men in to the order.

The next meeting of the Central Pennsylvania League will be held at Mt. Union on Saturday, March 19. Chincelamoose Tribe has a membership of approximately 550 and is one of the strongest and most progressive tribes in the central part of the state.

A Happy Thought

By GEORGE ELMER COBB

(Copyright, 1919, by the Western Newspaper Union.)

Vernon Clyde was learning how to become a banker. He had put in two years in the minor capacities necessary to a routine apprenticeship and had graduated finally into the credit department of the Empire National. Then Clyde fell in love with Naomi Russell, a stenographer in the transit division, and hoping for an increase in salary and that Naomi would continue to love and wait for him until he had comprised the main activities in his career.

"Naomi is sensible," he told a friend, "and I've got to show up with a little home before she will marry me."

"Then you've got a definite object in life to work for," encouraged his adviser.

"Wish I could make some extra money," said Clyde. "You see, there won't be much of a raise in my salary for two years."

Clyde was an all around favorite with his fellow workers and with those of his patrons who chanced to come in contact with him. These were quite numerous, for whenever a visiting bank man or a client wanted information he was invariably sent to Clyde, who was always accommodating, exerted himself to do his best, and was so prompt and reliable in his investigation that one of the vice presidents singled him out for any confidential work he had.

One day an assistant receiving teller appeared at Clyde's desk with a dusky, tired, bright-eyed little man who looked forlornly all at sea as to his surroundings. He had a pass book on a savings bank in a remote Minnesota town, showing that he had deposited something over three hundred dollars in that institution.

"He don't understand nor write a word of English," explained the teller. "I've tried the foreign department where they talk fifteen languages, but none of them seem to fit him. From his gestures I assume that he wants to get some money on that Minnesota account, but of course identification is necessary. See, he does that all the time—shows his left hand as if trying to indicate something."

The teller departed and Clyde studied his visitor. There was a lost, eager expression in the eyes of the little dark man. Abruptly Clyde got an idea. He wadded a piece of blotting pad with ink, pressed his thumb into it, then made an impression on a clean sheet of paper and looked inquiringly at his client who at once was all smiles, nodding his head vigorously, and made his own thumb mark for Clyde on a fragment of paper. Clyde pointed to a clock, ran his finger four times around its dial and held up as many fingers.

"In four days, understand?" he questioned the stranger, who nodded assent.

At the end of that time the little man showed up, this time with a man who could act as an interpreter. In the meantime Clyde had earned on his happy thought, had sent the thumb mark to the Minnesota bank and had received a reply stating that the thumb mark answered to their identification of one Netro Vladis, who had three hundred dollars on deposit with them, and if they found also a small win upon his left ear, they need not fear to cash the deposit book.

The win was discovered, Vladis given fifty dollars which he asked for, and with the balance he opened up a checking account. Vladis looked proud and important as he was given a check book and for two or three days he would draw a check in the morning, but return the amount in the afternoon, enjoying the novelty of signing with a cross and showing the thumb mark and the win on his ear.

One day there was great excitement in the institution when it was discovered that some clever thief, taking advantage of the absence of one teller, when the other teller was busy, had inserted some kind of a hooked instrument through the window and had departed with twelve packages of fifty-dollar bills, but no clew left as to the clever criminal.

The next morning when Clyde reached the bank he found Vladis, wild eyed and excited, waiting for him. He was amazed when the little man drew from his pocket a number of paper bands each marked five thousand dollars and each bearing the initials of the teller, who had been robbed. It appeared that Vladis had leased a room behind his little fruit store to two men, had found the hands in their waste basket and familiar with the hands from having drawn money several times, his suspicions were aroused. Very quietly Clyde left the bank with Vladis and accompanied by two of the special detectives of the institution and within an hour all except a trifle of the sixty thousand dollars was recovered. The bank fairly overwhelmed Vladis by presenting him with a thousand dollars. As to Clyde, the vice president learned of his love for Naomi Russell and their mutual longing for a home. At the next meeting of the directors of the bank it was decided that a neat little bungalow that had come into possession of the institution should be given to Clyde, and so this helpful friend of old and poor alike acquired a royal reward.

John F. Hyatt, of Albany, N. Y., is Relieved of Severe Attack of Rheumatism of Many Years' Standing.

"I am now 72 years old and am just getting rid of a 15 year case of rheumatism that had me so crippled up I could not walk," said John F. Hyatt, 227 Pearl street, Albany, N. Y., in relating his remarkable experience with Tanlac, recently. Mr. Hyatt was chairman of the committee on building the Albany county court house and was four times elected a member of the county board of supervisors. At present Mr. Hyatt is assistant superintendent of the Albany county court house, with offices in the building.

227 Pearl St., Albany, N. Y.

"I don't believe," he continued, "anybody could have rheumatism any worse than I did, and my case was of such long standing I didn't expect to ever get over it. I was unable to walk except for a short distance, supported with a cane, and even then the pains struck me every time I took a step. My legs, hips and ankles hurt something awful and my joints were stiff and aching. I couldn't cross my leg without having to lift it up with my hands, and to turn in bed, why the pains nearly killed me.

"My appetite was gone and the sight of food nauseated me. My stomach was out of order, and I had a sluggish, heavy feeling all the time. I was weak, off in weight and discouraged so that it looked like I might as well quit trying to ever get well.

"I had no idea Tanlac would relieve my rheumatism when I began taking it last Spring. I took it because I saw where it would give a

"I have been in the best of health ever since, with only a slight twinge of rheumatism at intervals. I do not need my cane now, but as I had been unable to walk without it for several years, I got into the habit of carrying it and so still take it along. I am enjoying life and health once more and can conscientiously recommend Tanlac as the greatest medicine I have ever run across in all my experience."

For the Spring Sewing-Fest

A FEW weeks before Lent the shop windows blossom out with spring clothes for children, household linens, undermuslins and house dresses, by way of reminding housewives that they must settle down to their annual spring sewing fest. Clothes for every member of the family become the absorbing matter of interest and the shops stand ready to furnish the wherewithal to make them. Their display windows are cheerful with gay spring cottons, checked and plaid gingham, plain chambrays and novelty weaves along with sheer organdy and other fine wash fabrics. This season they are showing exceptionally good-looking house dresses, crisp and practical, made of plaid, checked and plain materials. They invite the seamstress to consider what may be done with a few yards of gingham or other wash fabric in the hands of clever designers.

Checked gingham for both grown-ups and children are as sure of a welcome as daffodils, and they are duly on hand in the new displays. Pink and white combinations up to be favored followed by lavender and white with other colors answering the roll call in pleasing tones. Then there are plain colored cottons, alone and in combination with white, as shown in the picture, with many attractive plaids and a few stripes.

The noteworthy feature in spring house dresses is not novelty of materials, but cleverness of designs. Many of the plaid gingham are piped with a plain color and plain colors are ingeniously finished with white as in the dress shown at the right of the picture. A plain chambray is used for this model with vestee and collar of white lawn. The short sleeves are ornamented with folds of the lawn and there are deep cuffs made of it in double thickness.

Another chambray is shown at the left, with narrow tucked panels inserted in the skirt at each side headed by small tabs ornamented with needlework in white. The collar is edged with embroidery and there is a pretty finish of simple needlework on the bodice.
